

This is the October surprise, pure and simple: A Republican leaning broadcasting corporation is able to tap into one quarter of American households, while a Republican leaning FCC (hello, Mr. Powell) stands by and does nothing.

I hope you prove me wrong and stop this attempted smear campaign. This is not journalism; this is trash. There isn't even an attempt at fair time.

This speaks to the larger issue of allowing a couple of companies to own so much air space, which by the way, is supposed to serve the common good since it is all owned by the citizens. Please, do your jobs! I'm all for public discourse, but when the media is monopolized, the result is not discourse but propaganda and regulatory acts must occur!
